

WEBCentric TEAM BUILDING IN TARA AND DRINA CANYON

We decided to change everyday activities with extreme sports! Instead of dealing with business tasks, this weekend we all dealt with Tara and Drina rivers' rapids. One of the world's most beautiful canyons (second deepest after Colorado canyon) was successfully mastered by WEBCentric team. We all rowed as one and by that we confirmed unique team strength.

We have various everyday challenges that we solve by analysis and cooperation, using different skills and knowledge. Every link in the chain of rise equally matters. However, this time instead of rise, we went downhill and instead of carrying roles, we carried oars, followed by dynamics, fun and adrenaline.

After a fun ride to the camp, tiredness didn't stop us at making strategies over the campfire for the morning Tara and Drina river activities. Saturday morning couldn't have been better – sunny, but with a few clouds over the mountain tops. We went to the rafting start point by jeeps, and felt the real Bosnian safari. Finally, we sat in the boats and the adventure began.

We went down the Tara river and passed by confluence of Piva and Drina rivers, where we carried forward straight to the camp. Rafting itself was very exciting, with a large number of river rapids that we rowed through successfully. We enjoyed full 5 hours in the natural beauties and crystal clear water. Upon the return to the camp, hours were spent in exchanging experiences and retelling each other what great things happened that day. As usual, we shared everything!

1 bus, 2 rivers, 3 exiting days, 5 teams in boats, 20km of rafting, 700km on wheels, about a ton of food and countless smiles are just a part of impressions that we will remember about this exciting and unforgettable trip.

Then we got back to Belgrade, to our Monday routine, the standard work process.

Two colleagues met in the office. The sleepy one asked the smiling one: "How long will you keep smiling?", thinking about all tiredness caused by the unslept fun weekend. "Forever", the other answered. With this, after 72 exciting hours, we concluded that we will be smiling for a long time – since we had a very successful team building..

Until the next one...
